Iron-On Clothing Labels

Important information

- Iron-on clothing labels are highly resistant to machine washing (up to 60°C) and tumble drying.
- Iron-on clothing labels can be applied to any fabric that can be ironed (sweatshirts, jerseys, T-shirts, trousers, jogging pants, underwear, socks, T-shirts, jackets, hats, gloves, towels).
- They are easy to apply (no embroidery, no marker) and last very long on clothing (they cannot be removed).
- When ironing, do not move the iron over the area where the iron-on clothing label is placed (this could damage the label).
- Take the wet clothes out of the washing machine after washing – leaving wet clothes in the washing machine overnight can damage the labels.
- Iron-on name labels are very durable when ironed onto clothing. However, they are not laminated for best adhesion to clothing, so the colour may smear slightly when in direct contact with sunscreen lotion.
- Iron-on name labels cannot be removed from clothing.

Instructions for applying iron-on clothing labels

- 1 Wash the clothes
Apply the iron-on clothing labels to clothing that is dry, clean and free of grease.
- 2 Lay-out of the clothes
Turn the clothes inside out and place on a hard, flat surface.
- 3 Adjust the temperature
Set the iron on a medium to high setting (cotton). Adjust the temperature of the iron to suit the material being ironed.
- 4 No steaming
Switch off the steam and allow the iron to warm up.
- 5 Preheat the fabric
Use the iron to preheat the fabric and place it where you want the label to be ironed for a few seconds.
- 6 Place the iron-on label
Place the iron-on label with the lettering facing up in a suitable place that is easy to reach with the iron (not over a seam or fold).
- 7 Baking paper
Use the baking paper in the envelope to cover the iron-on label.
- 8 Iron
Press the iron through the entire surface (not the steam holes) for 5 seconds. Do not move the iron or the baking paper. Repeat 2 more times.
- 9 Allow to dry
Allow the iron to dry for 24 hours before putting it in the washing machine or wearing your clothes.
- 10 Ideal temperature
If your iron-on clothing labels are peeling off, try raising the temperature a little bit the next time you apply them.
